

Commercial real estate development news from around Eastern Washington & Northern Idaho

- Home
- About
- Archives
- Contact
- Submit Tip

• Subscribe

Enter your email address:

- RSS Posts | RSS Comments

• Contributors

- Paul Bielec
- Dani Bielec-Kramer
- Mike King

• Categories

- Announcements
- Coeur d'Alene
- Demographics
- Economy
- Government
- Kootenai County
- Local Market
- Local News
- National Market
- Post Falls
- Project/Development News
- Spokane
- Statistics

• Archives

- May 2008
- April 2008

- March 2008
- February 2008
- January 2008

• Links

- Commercial Properties for Sale
- commercial1031group.com
1031 & TIC Investments
- commercial1031.com

• Admin

- Log in

• Search

May

1

Is Coeur d'Alene Recession Proof?

Filed Under Coeur d'Alene, Economy

A recent article in the Spokesman Review detailed Coeur d'Alene's unique ability to potentially beat a national recession. Business consultant Mark Hovind has identified 27 "recession proof" cities. He bases this list off of data from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

In my own personal opinion, Coeur d'Alene is definitely not immune to the national trends, however we have a unique area with an increasingly diverse economy. Our area has continued a positive influx of immigration from neighboring states. What is for certain, Coeur d'Alene will continue to be a highly desirable area that will continue to grow despite problems in the national economy.

ShareThis

Comments

Leave a Reply

Name (required)

Email Address(required)

Website

Submit Comment

Notify me of follow up comments via e-mail

Copyright © 2007 Inland Informer • Powered by WordPress using Blue Zinfandel theme.